Presented Silver Punch Bowls

Presented Silver Punch Bowls

From Battalion to Friends

in New England.

Major E. W. Bowles and his committee of officers and enlisted men of the Richmond Light Infantry Blues returned to the city last night from an invasion of New England, where another link was forged in the chain of friendship between the Richmond command and the Rhode Island and Connecticut military organizations. The occasion for this trip was the presentation of silver punch bowls by the Blues to their friends of the North.

The one unfortunate event was the Blues to their friends of the North.

The one unfortunate event was the Blues to their friends of the North.

The one unfortunate event was the finability to reach Providence. This was due to the congestion in Washington Wash and tickets for two weeks in advance, they suffered from the general miss and tickets for two weeks in advance, they suffered from the general miss and tickets for two weeks in advance, they suffered from the general miss and tickets for two weeks in advance, they suffered from the general miss and tickets for two weeks in advance, they suffered from the general miss and tickets for two weeks in advance, they suffered from the general miss cheduled that the output of the principle of the principle of the principle of the content of the principle of the principle and tickets for two weeks in advance, they suffered from the general mismanagement and confusion in the Union Passenger Station, which was supposed to be extensive enough for any emergency. The committee was not allowed to get on its own train, excellent opportunity; must sell im-mediately on account of ill health, which it held tickets. The result was that the Blues did not reach New York until 9 o'clock Wednesday night, whereas they were due in Providence at 7 o'clock the same evening. MacVeagh Explains Acceptance of $123,000 From Oleomargarine Dealers.

NO FRAUD WAS CHARGED

Whole Controversy Brought About by Technicality as to Coloring.

Chicago, March 9 .- Franklin Maoleagh, former Secretary of the Treasury, to-day issued a statement, in which he defended his ruling in the oleomargarine prosecutions, which resulted in the government's acceptance of $123,000 in settlement of alleged frauds through which the government, it is claimed, was defrauded of $1 .-200,000.

tentional fraud existed in the cases, and that the settlement was on rec-ommendation of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

"As the oleomargarine compromise cases have been more or less misunderstood," he said, "I am quite willing to state the facts;

"These were not fraud cases. No fraud was charged by the government. No fraud was committed, and no fraud, therefore, was compromised. Therefore, was compromised. ternal Revenue.

therefore, was compromised. Therefore oleomargarine cases and oleomargarine cases. Those of which the public has heard most are fraud cases cases in which the oleomargarine law was fraudulently evaded. The cases in question, however, are not in that category.

"The outline of Cases."

"The outline of these cases is this: The manufacture of two kinds of oleomargarine is permitted by law. One kind may be artificially colored, as butter and cheese may. This kind must pay a tax of 10 cents a pound. The other and usual kind is taxed at a quarter of a cent a pound, and must not be artificially colored. It may be naturally colored by the colors naturally in its permitted ingredients. There is constant effort to obtain natural color in the permitted ingredients. This effort is, of course, an entirely This effort is, of course, an entirely legitimate enterprise and within the legitimate enterprise and within the law.

"It happens that cottonseed oil, is one of the chief ingredients of oleomargarine, and also that this oil in its crude state is colored. In the process of refining cottonseed oil, however, for lise in olcomargarine, the color has been lost, at least in any process not too expensive to be commercially available. Thus, the manufacturers are searching for a process of refining cottonseed oil by an economical process without losing its color.

"Now, an Ohio chemist claims to have insented a method that solves the problers, and an oil company in Louis-nave in ented a method that solves the problem, and an oil company in Louisville—not an eleomargarine company—used this invention, and in 1911 produced oil with some color that was claimed to be natural. This oil was offered to oleomargarine manufactur

The of-fers were for that reason accepted. "The reference to a much larger sum

-say, $1,000,000—as an amount the parties might have been compelled to pay, grew probably out of the proforma claims. There never was a real million dollars in the bureau's mind. Pro forma claims are like figures in suits for damages.

Not Eleventh-Hour Action.

"One other mistaken impression is that the action was an eleventh-hour one. The case had been before the department for a number of months. It reached me feady for approval in November. In December, when I was about to approve the settlements, I suddenly learned that Judge Landis, in the Federal Court in Chicago, purposed to take cognizance of cases and posed to take cognizance of cases and refer them to a grand jury.

"I withheld my signature purely in formal deference to the court. I could have approved the settlements at any time and ended the matter, for these cases are administrative and rest with the Treasury Department."

the Treasury Department.
"I waited, however, a considerable time and held the matter open still longer to enable a committee of Con gress to make an inquiry and report I did not finally act until it was evithat Congress would not con sider the report."

Both Bristol, Va., and Bristol, Tenn., Both Bristol, Va., and Bristol, Tenn., have perfected arrangements to establish a "white way" system of electric lighting. Contracts have been closed with the Bristol Lighting Company and with Southern foundries for the required standards for installing the system. The business centre is to be brilliantly illuminated with three and five-lamp standards.

Fire destroyed the home of W. H. Dickson, clork and master of the Bristol, Tenn., court, entailing a loss of $4,000.

of Internal Revenue. The oil then was tested throughout many weeks by the chemical laboratories of the bureau, by the laboratories of the oleomargarine manufacturers and by private laboratories. No one could find any artificial color.

Certain of Legality.

"Finally, the manufacturers of oleomargarine connected with these cases became apparently so certain of the legality of this oil that they began to use it with the knowledge of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, but without the bureau's final decision.

"The bureau meant still to keep its mind open, but was at the end of its resources at the time. The oil had thus been openly used in larger or smaller quantities for some months when the bureau, by new chemical lnouries as information and not guacanteed:
